Assistance submitting to private foundations

UAHS Development Team to help increase funding support

The University of Arizona Health Sciences (UAHS) Development Team would like to help you submit grants to local and national private foundations and grantmakers and increase funding support to the University of Arizona. We appreciate the work that goes into developing successful philanthropic grant proposals, and we want to provide better support to investigators while building better relationships with funders. It's a win-win for everyone.

What our office can do for you

Our team has researched and developed the UAHS Top Foundations List, which includes close to 100 private foundations that have supported UAHS or UA in the past or are aligned with the UAHS mission. This will be a good resource for you to tap into as you consider funding opportunities for your projects and programs. In addition, we can help you in the following areas:

- Ensure that multiple investigators or competing applications are not submitted concurrently
- Provide comprehensive information about previously submitted and funded proposals
- Provide first-hand information about foundations often not found on foundation websites
- Connect applicants with program officers and other funded investigators
- Engage UAHS leadership in discussions about the project
- Help develop a strategy to approach the organization
- Contact organizations to share project ideas and arrange meetings or site visits
- Assist with writing and editing for some proposals

How can you get started?

Please refer to the UAHS Top Foundation List (attached) for more details about the process and next steps. The only change will be for you to submit a short form or give us a call before contacting a grantmaker on the list or submitting a grant application so we can provide you with institutional information.

We will be offering brown-bag sessions to departments as needed to share more information about these services and process. Please contact uahsfr@email.arizona.edu to schedule.

We're excited to work with you and welcome any questions you have.
